The Lost Homework Incident

Date: 10th June 2025
Subject: Investigation into Vanished Chemistry Notes

Student Neha entered the class in visible panic, claiming her chemistry notes "vanished overnight." She insisted she'd placed them on the study table, only for them to disappear by morning. Her friends organized a mini search mission involving the classroom, corridor, and canteen (for snacks, mostly). The notebook was eventually located under her pillow, along with two candy wrappers and a motivational quote sticky note saying "you got this."

Handwriting analysis reveals late-night panic revision and caffeine fingerprints. No external tampering detected.

Case closed. Diagnosis: mild academic hallucination.
